Man Without a Lobby Is Always the Tax Target

In the absence of petitions calling for a popular vote in the next general election (November 1972) new tax laws enacted by the 1971 General Assembly took effect Monday of this week.

Among them was a strictly dishonorable measure expanding the state sales tax from physical goods to services—such services as overhauling your automobile, and the humble business of repairing an old pair of shoes. In both cases you paid 3 per cent sales tax when purchasing the item new—now you pay another 3 per cent every time the original article is touched by a repair station.

As one of the original advocates of the state sales tax in Arkansas—1934 and 1935 (it was enacted in March 1935)—I pointed out from the beginning that what the people had to be on guard against was the degeneration of the sales tax into a transaction tax—a tax, that is, every time the article was turned over.

But transaction tax is in fact just what the sales tax has become in Arkansas. My editorial research a generation ago brought up the case of Spain, where the world's first sales tax was enacted. In Spain the sales tax became a transaction tax—and on commonly used goods the tax rose as high as 60 per cent of the original cost of a household item. Spaniards revolted and wiped out the sales tax (or transaction tax as it had become).

Obviously the thought here is, it wouldn't have happened if in either Spain or Arkansas had there been a lobby to defend the common man against sales tax rate increases or expansions. All conventional taxes have expensive lobbies to argue against them. But there is no lobby against abuse of the sales tax—no one to speak up against robbery of the common people except for an occasional angry editor like yours truly.

"No Fault" Insurance Is Studied

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four representatives of the Arkansas Association of Insurance Agents will be in Dallas, Tex., Thursday and Friday to study various forms of the "no-fault" automobile insurance plan.

Richard Herget, executive vice president of the AAIA, said earlier this week that the AAIA will submit to the 1973 General Assembly a package of insurance legislation that would include a type of no-fault automobile insurance, which basically eliminates the necessity of establishing blame in auto accidents before claims can be paid.

The AAIA has a basic bill now, he said, and is in the process of studying other no-fault laws to refine the model one now drawn up for Arkansas.

Woman Killed in Collision

MALVERN, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. John Ledbetter, 66, of Rolla was killed Wednesday when the pickup truck in which she was riding collided with a logging truck about 2 miles south of here on Arkansas 9.

Police said her husband, John, 72, was hospitalized at Malvern. He was the driver of the pickup.

Police said the driver of the logging truck, Leonard Allen, 50, of Sheridan was not injured.

Says Mosquito Spray Helps

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—A Conway veterinarian said Wednesday that until immunization against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis is attained, mosquito spray is the best immediate protection for horses.

Dr. J. W. Hart offered the advice to horse owners prior to the start—probably Friday—of a statewide inoculation program to prevent the spread of the mosquito-carried disease.

21 Killed in Crash of Big Helicopter

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — A big U.S. helicopter packed with South Vietnamese rangers developed mechanical trouble Wednesday and crashed in flames 100 yards from Fire Base Mary Ann.

The U.S. Command said 21 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 31 Vietnamese and the five American crewmen were injured.

The twin-rotor CH47 Chinook was bringing the rangers to the artillery base 50 miles south-west of Da Nang, a South Vietnamese spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said. U.S. forces turned the base over to the South Vietnamese in April.

Hien said he believed the rangers were replacing troops at the base who were due for rotation.

Meanwhile, only light contact was reported in the second day of a 10,000-man South Vietnamese thrust against North Vietnamese base camps and staging areas in eastern Cambodia along Highway 7 between Krek and Mimot. U.S. B52 bombers

If You Can't Express Yourself in 400 Pages You Better Give It Up

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

You'll enjoy your life more after 40 if you make it a rule never to read a book more than 400 pages long—except the Bible. Any author who can't say what's on his mind in 400 pages is only mumbling to himself.

The two most discontented types of people in America are Army colonels and the vice presidents of large corporations. They are symbols of top-level failure. The colonel who never wins a general's star, the vice president who never gets his name lettered in gold on the Big Door—each feels in his heart like an also-ran, who almost made it but didn't quite.

This would be a happier world if at least once a year everyone in it would sit down in the grass with his heart's desire and spend an hour together doing nothing but look for four-leaf clovers.

Achievement of some kind is possible to anybody, no matter what the handicap. That's why so many girls wear long fingernails. It is the only way they can think of to gain attention.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration backed down today on a food stamp plan proposed in April to cut off 275,000 higher-income welfare families. But the administration stuck to earlier strategy for reducing stamp benefits to them.

The revised proposal, announced by the Agriculture Department, is designed to implement a new food stamp law passed by Congress late last year. Barring further hiccups, officials expect most states and counties to have the new plan in operation by early 1972.

At the present time anyone on welfare in participating counties is eligible for government food stamps. In April, under new uniform national income standards, proposed by the Agriculture Department many persons in states with larger welfare payments would have been cut off.

Now, according to the revision, all welfare people will be eligible for food stamps regardless of their cash welfare benefits.

Other provisions of the regulation will be discussed in a later article.

British Plane Forced Down by Libyans

CAIRO (AP) — A leader of the new Sudanese regime claimed today an "external intervention" has been launched against Sudan and the armed forces are defending its independence.

Maj. Hashem Ata, in a statement over Omdurman radio monitored in Cairo, appealed to all Sudanese to speed to the aid of the four-day revolution.

CAIRO (AP) — Sudanese troops and tanks surrounded the Egyptian and Libyan embassies in Khartoum today, following the seizure of two leaders of the new Sudanese regime on their way home from London in a British airliner forced to land in Libya, the Iraqi news agency reported.

The BOAC VC10 was buzzed by Libyan fighters before landing at Benghazi airport, passengers reported. Its landing followed by hours the unexplained crash over Saudi Arabia of a special Iraqi airliner bound for Khartoum with an Iraqi delegation to the new Sudanese regime.

Libya's government radio reported possible fighting in the Sudanese capital "between rival units of the Sudanese army or as a result of a civil insurrection."

It said Sudan's Omdurman radio was broadcasting "appeals to the people," but did not explain the appeals or say what they contained.

Not Pleased With Keith Jackson

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Richard W. Longing, director of the state Department of Commerce, said Wednesday the Bumpers administration was not pleased with the performance of S. Keith Jackson, director of the state Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

Longing said he would confer with the commission Friday morning about the possible replacement of Jackson.

Prisons Beginning to See Daylight

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — John Haley, chairman of the state Board of Correction, said here Wednesday that the penal system in Arkansas was "beginning to see daylight" in solving the problems at the state's prisons.

Haley, in a speech to the Kiwanis Club, said that new Correction Commissioner Terrell Don Hutto is doing a fine job.

"The former sense of disarray has all but disappeared under Hutto," Haley said.

Vaccination of Horses to Start Friday

Vaccination of horses, mules, and other animals of the equine group against Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis will begin in Hempstead County Friday of this week, according to Calvin Caldwell, County Extension Agent. Dr. Herbert Rogers, Veterinarian will administer the vaccine. Vaccination is compulsory and all members of the equine group from one day of age and older are to be vaccinated.

There is no charge to the horse owner for the vaccination. We will set up some vaccination clinics so that more animals may be vaccinated in a shorter period, the County Agent said. One of the first clinics will be held at the 3rd District Livestock Show Rodeo Arena. Only the owners of horses that have been scheduled for vaccination will be vaccinated on any given day. In other words do not bring your horses for vaccination if you have not been notified to do so.

Dr. Rogers must pick up a new batch of vaccine each day, so it is necessary that he knows the exact number to be vaccinated that day. Any vaccine not used that day must be discarded.

To register your horses call 777-5771 or fill out the blank on page 9 of this issue and return it to the Extension Service Office, Hempstead County Courthouse, Hope.

Drill Will Be Sent to Moon

DENVER (AP) — A sophisticated drill is going to the moon with the Apollo 15 mission to enable astronaut David R. Scott to take the moon's temperature.

The 29-pound unit—which will weigh five pounds on the moon—is a hand-held, battery-powered drill that works on a rotary percussion principle. It bores by hammering tungsten-carbide cutters through the surface and will be called upon to cut two 10-foot-deep holes in the lunar surface during the first scheduled moon walk, Aug. 1.

Unlike workshop drills the Apollo Lunar Surface Drill does not generate heat, developer Martin Marietta Corp. says.

Therefore, sensitive heat-monitoring devices will be lowered into the holes to measure subsurface temperature changes. The "heat flow probes" will be connected to a central data transmitter that will send temperature readings back to earth for about a year.

Scott also is scheduled to drill an 8-foot core sample of lunar material that will be returned to earth, where scientists will study it seeking to determine whether the moon was formed the same way and at the same time as was the earth.

W. Memphis to Vote on Bond

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — West Memphis residents will vote Aug. 24 on two Act 9 bond issues totaling $2.3 million.

A $1.3 million bond issue would be used to construct facilities for Evans Products Co., a hardwood paneling firm. The proposed plant would employ about 80 persons.

A $1 million bond issue would be used to expand the present size of the Langston Bag Co. plant. The company now employs about 40 persons and the expansion would double that number.

Dies in Crop-Duster Crash

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — Marion Caldwell, 34, of Dumas was killed Wednesday when his single-engine crop-duster plane crashed in a field near the Yorktown community about six miles north of here.

State Police said Caldwell was spraying cotton on the Earl Moore farm when the plane nosed into the ground and burst into flames.

Electrical Rate Hike in Jonesboro Blamed on Arkla Gas Cutback

AP News Digest

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Electricity users in Jonesboro will feel the first effects of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.'s curtailment of natural gas for use in power generation in August when the City Water & Light Co. here will increase its rates for electricity.

CW&L Manager Marion Ulmer said Wednesday that a fuel adjustment rate for both residential and commercial customers will become effective with bills mailed Aug. 8.

Under Arkla's current policy of a 30 per cent curtailment of natural gas, the fuel adjustment will add only one cent to the monthly bill of the minimum user of 20 kilowatt hours of electricity. The monthly bill for the 20 kilowatt user is about $1.

Ulmer said the new rates will add 7 cents to the bills of 100 kilowatt user, 18½ cents to the 250 kilowatt user, 35 cents to the 500 kilowatt user, 70 cents to the 1,000 kilowatt user and $1.40 to the 2,000 kilowatt user. Most of CW&L's residential customers fall in the 1,000-2,000 kilowatt hour category, Ulmer said.

Rumors Pose New Problem Over Visit

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has a new problem: how to halt new rumors growing out of his secrecy-cloaked announcement a week ago that he will go to Peking.

As an example, a reporter Wednesday pursued a "isn't-it-logical" suggestion that Nixon was conferring here in secret with a Chinese Communist delegation on further arrangements for the planned Peking visit.

Such rumors and hearsay are checked more closely these days since Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security affairs, journeyed to Peking and back—to nail down an agreement on Nixon's China journey—without being discovered.

The White House gave assurances no envoys from mainland China met with Nixon Wednesday.

However, the President himself, perhaps unwittingly, has encouraged all variety of speculation by spending much of the past three days in his

One Railway, Union Reach Agreement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United Transportation Union reached a tentative contract agreement today with the Chicago & North Western Railway Co., but three other railroads remained faced with strikes Saturday.

A week-old UTU strike against the Union Pacific and Southern railroads continued, with federal mediators reporting no progress in attempts to end the dispute over work rules.

The union had threatened to widen the rail walkout to the C&NW. Still scheduled for a UTU strike at 6 a.m. Saturday were the Norfolk & Western, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific. Six other carriers were due for walkouts on July 30.

Today's settlement involved only the C&NW and covered wages and fringe benefits as well as work rules over a 42-month period.

Meanwhile, small groups of telephone workers in widely scattered areas of the nation continued on strike today, defying their international union's back-to-work order for a second day.

The holdouts said they were dissatisfied with pension, overtime and various other provisions of a tentative contract settlement designed to end the walkout begun July 14 against the Bell Telephone System.

Members of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America stayed off the job at most Bell System installations in New York State and Arizona, and to a lesser extent in New Mexico, Wisconsin, Florida, Ohio, Missouri, Colorado and Wyoming.

Many holdouts said they would return to work only if the proposed contract is approved in mail balloting, a process expected to take two weeks.

In other labor developments, the United Steelworkers Union prepared for a Saturday meeting to consider a new industry offer for 35,000 copper workers who went on strike in Western states July 1. The offer reportedly included a 92-cent hourly wage increase over three years. Pay now average $3.81 to $4.38 an hour.

In a separate dispute, the Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. said it would not be able to reach agreement with the steelworkers before the Aug. 1 contract expiration and would begin shutting down in anticipation of a strike. There was no indication from the company or the union on what specific issues led to the stalemate.

The nine steel producers which rank ahead of Wheeling bargained jointly in Washington with the union as steelworkers locals got authorization to take a strike vote.

The General Electric Co. said it would lay off more than 7,000 employees in its aircraft engine group this year, a 26 per cent cutback in employment in that department.

Bumpers Impressed by Prisons

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday following a tour of the state's two prisons and the boys' training school at Wrightsville that he was impressed with the work under way to improve the institutions.

Bumpers spent the day Wednesday touring the facilities. He was accompanied by Correction Commissioner Terrell Don Hutto.

The governor said the most serious problem at the prisons was overcrowding.

"They're stacked on each other," he said. "You can't rehabilitate a man under those conditions."

Bumpers said, however, Hutto was converting the prisons into good institutions.

The governor said he also planned similar visits to other state institutions.

Survey Shows Agnew Won't Be Dropped

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
DENVER (AP) — A survey of Republican organization leaders indicates most of those willing to forecast expect Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will be renominated in 1972. But there is an undertone of dissent.

A minority scattered from the East to the Midwest and Texas said it is time for a change.

A cross-section of Republican state chairmen and national committee members surveyed by The Associated Press signaled wide support within the GOP organization for Agnew's renomination, and a general anticipation he will be President Nixon's choice.

The Republican state chairmen and the national committee members, two from each state, began a three-day conference in Denver today.

One major item of business: selection of a site for the party's 1972 presidential nominating convention.

But President Nixon's expressed no preference, leaving the possibility Republicans might decide to go to Miami Beach, where Democrats will hold their 1972 convention beginning July 10.

The party leaders were surveyed in advance of the Denver session and, in some cases, before Nixon's announcement of his planned mission to Communist China had underscored Agnew's past differences with administration overtures toward Peking.

Thirty-five GOP leaders said they expect Agnew will be chosen to run again with Nixon; 15 others said simply the choice is up to Nixon and they will abide by his wishes.

Seventy of the GOP leaders responded; eight said they believe Agnew should be replaced; four others said it is possible he will be dropped from the ticket.

The others reserved judgment. "The President is going to have to make up his mind first," said John Andrews, Republican chairman of Ohio. "Then so will the vice president. Past history favors his return."

But the Texas GOP chairman, Dr. George Willeford of Austin, said he doesn't think Agnew will be back. "I personally like Agnew ... but I'm not sure he's good for the ticket," Willeford said. "I think a new face on the ticket would help."

Another Republican leader said he thinks the vice president will be replaced, and suggested Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally for the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

"I think the 1972 vice presidential nominee will be Connally," he said. Connally is a Texan and a Democrat.

"I think Connally could help carry Texas, but I doubt if Agnew could take Maryland even if he is on the ticket," the Republican state official said.

A GOP chairman from the Northern Plains said he thinks Agnew should be dropped. "I don't think Agnew would draw enough votes to be an asset," he said.

He said he has no one in mind as a replacement—"but one thing for sure, I don't want it to be Connally."

But endorsement of Agnew outweighed the political criticism.

"He's doing an outstanding job," said Winthrop Rockefeller, former governor and now national committeeman from Arkansas. Rockefeller said he believes that if Agnew wants to be on the ticket he will be.

"hideaway" suite in the Old Executive Office Building. In the past, such solitude often has resulted in a news conference, a speech or major pronouncement.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no press conference or speech is in the immediate offing.

Pressed on the subject, Ziegler insisted Nixon simply is going about his business of being president. Ziegler and deputy press secretary Gerald W. Warren said the chief executive was talking to aides, advisers and Cabinet members on such disparate but interlinked subjects as China, Vietnam, the economy and the federal budget—not necessarily in that order.

All these items promise to figure in the 1972 presidential election campaign, so did Nixon talk to anyone about politics?

Absolutely not, was the word from 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., at least not since Tuesday, when he met with Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Publicly and privately, Ziegler insisted Nixon's retreat from the public eye holds no significance whatever. In private, he was more emphatic than in public.

Father Salandini was suspended last week by Roman Catholic Bishop Leo T. Maher for disregarding orders not to wear a sash bearing the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee insignia during Mass and for offering corn tortillas hosts during communion.

Buckley Tells of Hoax to Prove Point

NEW YORK (AP) — William F. Buckley Jr., editor of the National Review, says his magazine perpetrated a hoax with fictional Vietnam papers to show that such forgeries "would be widely accepted as genuine provided their content was inherently plausible."

Buckley revealed the elaborate spoof Wednesday after a large segment of the American news media had carried stories on what the magazine called "highly classified government documents relating to the Vietnam war."

"We admit we proceeded in something of an ethical vacuum," Buckley told newsmen with a broad grin, but he suggested that somewhere in the government archives were real documents similar to the forgeries printed in the magazine.

"The point is that the papers, or something like them, must have been written," he said. "Therefore, one concludes that the difficulty was not that the Pentagon and the CIA gave LBJ bad advice, but that LBJ didn't take good advice."

Another aim of the hoax, he said, was to demonstrate "that the Pentagon and the CIA are not composed of incompetents—the unwarranted conclusion to which many were led by the fragmentary revelations of the New York Times and The Washington Post."

Appearing under the title, "The Secret Papers They Didn't Publish," the National Review "documents" included dispatches attributed to former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the CIA and others. Most were dated in the early 1960s.

Suspicion of a hoax grew when several of the persons listed as authors said they couldn't recall writing the "documents." Social historian Daniel Boorstin flatly denied writing a memo the magazine credited to him.

Buckley, who had been unavailable for comment when the magazine was released to the press, said at the Wednesday news conference that the "documents" were composed by editors of the magazine "ex nihilo"—out of nothing.

The New York Times, however, said today that at least some of the "documents" were composed ex New York Times and from the published statements of the persons credited with authorship by the magazine.

The Times said the first two memorandums quoted in the National Review were in fact excerpted from actual memorandums printed by the Times in its series in June and July about the secret Pentagon study of American involvement in the war.

backed the troops with raids against enemy supply lines and storage depots.

The U.S. Command reported that 11 Americans were killed in action last week, the lowest one-week total in six years. The toll reflected the lull in the war as well as the withdrawal of U.S. forces from combat.

Vietnamese casualties also were reduced, with 202 government troops 975 of the enemy reported killed. The week before the report was 238 and 1,145.

B52 bombers kept up saturation strikes against North Vietnamese supply routes and suspected troop concentrations and supply depots along the demilitarized zone. Nine bombers struck along the DMZ, while a half dozen other B52s pounded enemy positions 24 miles south of Hue.

South Vietnamese troops following up the B52 strikes reported uncovering 350 rounds of enemy mortar shells along the DMZ.

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr., commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, said today the "gravest threat" by enemy forces is in the northernmost two provinces of South Vietnam.

Chapman told newsmen during a stopover in Saigon that Hanoi's capabilities are considerably less than two or three years ago but the enemy "still has considerable capabilities, and I don't think we should underestimate them. The enemy could do a lot of damage when he chooses to do so."

In 1970 the New York City Police Department cited 5,989 persons for jaywalking. The fine is $2.

CRESTWOOD, Mo. (AP) — Michael Somogyi, 88, a biochemist known internationally for his diabetes research, died Wednesday. A native of Hungary, Somogyi helped develop a method for manufacturing insulin shortly after World War I.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Thomas L. Grace, 66, president of Ozark Airlines since 1964, died Wednesday after undergoing heart surgery.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — William Stark Hawkins, 60, former grand exalted ruler of the Order of Elks, died of a stroke while attending the group's 107th Grand Lodge convention. He was an attorney from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Bronson Albert, 90, theatrical manager who fostered some of the great names of the British stage, died Wednesday. He served as chairman of the Old Vic, forerunner of Britain's National Theater.

Increase in Pay Is Announced

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Mayor Tildon Rogers of West Memphis announced Wednesday that employees of the West Memphis Utility Department will get a requested pay increase.

A dispute over wages erupted last summer and employees walked off their jobs for a day. Tildon said Wednesday that the raises will amount to $23,800, exclusive of fringe benefits. He said that each employee has been reviewed and the raises awarded accordingly.

He said the Arkansas Power and Light wage scale was used and the employees of the West Memphis department will receive salaries equal to or better than AP&L.

Final action on the raises will be taken at the West Memphis City Council meeting Aug. 9.

PLAN DESIGNED

lations relating to elimination of food stamps for hippie-type communes and other unrelated groups living in the same household will be retained in accordance with the law.

A controversial work requirement forcing able-bodied adults to register for and accept jobs in return for food stamps was retained. It was clarified, however, to allow exemption of persons whose health and safety would be jeopardized by work.

The reduced stamp benefits will apply mostly to persons at the upper end of the income scale.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department planned to announce today revised proposals for putting more food stamps into the hands of the poorest families and shutting out hippies and job-shy adults.

The revised plan is the Nixon administration's answer to Capitol Hill critics who charged regulations announced last April were too restrictive and that some low-income families would wind up paying more for food stamps.

Food stamps, government-backed coupons sold to qualified low-income people, is the government's pledge to wipe out hunger in the United States.

In 1970 the New York City Police Department cited 5,989 persons for jaywalking. The fine is $2.

Mills Helping in Steel Discussions

BY EDMUND L. BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, despite the White House brushoff of his foreign trade negotiating role, is helping the State Department in difficult discussions on imported steel, according to congressional sources.

These sources said the Arkansas Democrat, in close collaboration with the department, has held promising discussions with Japanese steel producers and is now working on more difficult problems involving steel from the European Common Market.

It appeared that Mills would continue the efforts even though he reacted furiously Tuesday when a member of President Nixon's staff publicly minimized his role in bringing about voluntary reductions in footwear imports and suggested that such negotiations be kept "in appropriate government channels."

Along with textiles and shoes, steel is one of the commodities imported in such quantity that some U.S. producers have been calling for restrictive legislation.

As Ways and Means Committee chairman, Mills presides over trade bills.

A three-year voluntary undertaking by Japanese and European Common Market producers to limit their exports to this country runs out at the end of 1971.

Sources said Mills, with the blessing of the State Department, has been telling spokesmen of the foreign interests that voluntary agreements—even with tighter restrictions—would be better for them than the kind of legislation that might be pushed through by a resurgence of protectionist pressures in Congress. The sources said Mills has been discussing terms for a continuing arrangement.

McClellan's Secretary Robbed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The personal secretary of Sen. John L. McClellan, head of the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, was robbed at gunpoint Tuesday in the New Senate Office Building.

Jeannine L. Ragland, who has worked for the Arkansas Democrat more than 10 years, said she was drafting letters when two men walked into the room, displayed a gun and bound her with a telephone cord.

Mrs. Ragland said the men took $10 from her wallet but failed to remove her diamond ring and watch. The 42-year-old secretary said she freed herself within a few minutes.

McClellan said, "It's just another in a long string of criminal activity that has been committed on Capitol Hill and in the vicinity recently."

"It's been happening in this town for the last five or six years — the Capitol has been bombed, girls are raped near the Senate Office Building and secretaries are robbed ..."

Extradition Papers Are Sent

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Papers to extradite Daniel Lon Graham, 31, from Michigan to Arkansas on an escape charge were mailed Wednesday to Gov. William Milliken at Lansing, Mich.

Garry L. Brewer, prison aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers, said the governor received a petition from Pros. Atty. Joe Holmes of Pine Bluff asking Bumpers to request the extradition of Graham.

Graham escaped May 31 from Cummins Prison Farm while serving a life sentence for his conviction in the 1969 abduction of the wife of a banker at DeValls Bluff.

On June 18, a supermarket was robbed at Springdale and two supermarket employees were shot to death and a third was wounded. Springdale authorities say they want to question Graham about the incident. Graham was arrested this month in Ludington, Mich.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

DON'T PUSH HIM OVER THE BRINK

Dear Helen:

We have a problem, or rather our father does. He used to smoke very heavily but he cut down to less than a pack a day.

My sister and I worry, and nag him about smoking, pulling stunts like writing on his cigarettes, making posters against tobacco, just about everything to make him quit.

Mom goes along with this but says "not too much," because she knows Dad is touchy on the subject.

We love him a lot and want to keep him around for a long time. Should we stay with the anti-cigarette campaign or will it make him so nervous he might start smoking more to calm his nerves?—DON'T WANT TO BE FATHERLESS CHILDREN

Dear DWTBFC:

Hang in there but as your mother says, not too heavy. You've already accomplished a lot, since your father has cut down to less than a pack a day. Don't undo what you've done with overdoing.—H.

Dear Helen:

I'm only 14 and known to be so sweet and innocent. I don't know how it happened—I mean how I could have let it happen—but I'm pretty sure I'm pregnant. I've been going with Mike, who's 18, for five months and we love each other. He's standing by me but, Helen, I'll kill myself before I tell my parents. Help!—SCARED

Dear Scared: (And there are so many girls like you who would "rather die than tell their parents.")

There's no other way: your parents must be told, and soon. Of course they'll be shocked and hurt, but you may be surprised at how fast they recover and what great comforts they are to a girl who never needed them more!—H.

Dear Helen:

My sister was dating a college guy about a month ago. He asked her to a banquet and she accepted. She got a beautiful formal, new shoes, and went to the beauty shop. I mean she really went all out for this guy. And he never showed.

A friend told me he treated another girl the same way.

My sister says she is over him. She acted as if the whole thing was a joke. But, Helen, every time a car stops or a horn honks, or the telephone rings, she's all tense. I think she still likes him.

Should I keep my nose out of her business or try to get her talking so she'd get over him?—CONCERNED SISTER

Dear Sister:

Get her talking, if you can. When a girl holds things inside her, she daydreams too much. She may even be making excuses for this "stand-up collegian" when she SHOULD be working up a good healthy mad.

Call him a rat, and see what happens.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Chuck Jones looks at things in an unconventional way and that will be reflected in "Curiosity Shop," the children's show he has created for ABC-TV.

Jones is a freckled, red-haired man who is very low key but for years turned out animated cartoons about such hyperthyroid characters as Bugs Bunny, Road Runner and Wile E. Coyote.

"Curiosity Shop," aimed at children 6 to 11 years old and to be shown on Saturday mornings beginning Sept. 11, will start each show with a familiar object or subject. From there it may go to a connecting idea or into a flight of fancy.

Jones said, "I think trivial information is the most important and a lot of that will come from Professor Trivia, a worm who lives in a book. I'm not interested in how many tons of steel there are in the George Washington Bridge. But I am interested in how many fox terriers marching in lockstep it would take to destroy the bridge."

He smiled at the thought. "Trivia is so interesting. There are many creatures in the sea. All fish have vertical tails and all mammals have horizontal tails. I like to pass information like that on to kids so they can impress people."

Jones, winner of three Academy Awards and producer of the Pogo and Dr. Seuss specials for television, was sought out by ABC after television's children's programs came under heavy criticism nearly two years ago.

All three networks appointed executives to oversee children's programming for the first time and to bring about improvements. At first Jones was a network vice president, but recently he gave up the title to work exclusively on "Curiosity Shop" as executive producer and to supervise a new animated version of "A Christmas Carol" for ABC done in the style of the original manuscript illustrations.

Jones said, "I feel that what television needs now is to exploit talent. To set up conditions where talent can flourish. That's the way Harold Ross ran the New Yorker magazine. I feel what we need is not to work with safe ideas, but to work with safe men with creative ideas. A safe man is a creative man with ideas and experience."

Revival Held in Blevins

The Victory Baptist Church of Blevins will hold a revival July 25 through August 1. Services will be nightly at 7:30. Rev. David Webb of Nashville will be the evangelist. Rev. Milton Langston is pastor.

Garrett Baptists to See Film

A like-it-is look at life on today's seething, secular campuses' backdrops, "3", a 75-minute feature motion picture, in color, to be shown at Garrett Memorial Baptist Church, 300 N. Ferguson on Friday, July 23rd at 7:30 p.m.

This motion picture tells the story of a transfer student who finds the life-style and climate of a big university quite different from that of the small church-related college from which he had come. Feeling that he had his life figured out and organized, he is catapulted into disillusionment and confusion when he encounters the drugs, moral attitudes and views on religion existing on the large campus. Through a group of students he finds the real and true purpose in life, and that through Christ, the words faith, hope, and love take on new and great dimensions, dimensions he had never before seen.

Says Airport Security Is Lax

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

James V. Schaefer, 30, admitted partner in a $100-million airport theft ring, says security at several national airports is as lax now as it was two years ago when he was rifling mailbags for a living.

Schaefer toured airports earlier this month with Senate investigators, returning to the scene of crimes he said he and fellow thieves committed between 1968 and 1970.

He outlined the tour and his career to the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee Tuesday.

"I stole more than any of them," Schaefer said, as he detailed under oath his activities and contacts in the underworld. His gang, Schaefer told senators, was led by Robert Cudak, who testified before Senate investigators earlier.

Securities, diamonds, even packets of material labeled "top secret" were part of the loot Schaefer said he found.

"I recall we found diagrams of what I believe was a Polaris missile, or at least a ballistic missile system of some kind," Schaefer said. "Finding this material in the bags always scared us. We tried to get rid of it as fast as we could."

"We burned the missile diagrams and then we ran over the ashes many times with a truck. Other classified material we either burned or threw in the ocean."

A second witness, ex-convict Anthony Mannarino, was identified by Schaefer as a fence with whom the gang dealt. But Mannarino, a construction worker from Valley Stream, N.Y., took the 5th Amendment 65 times when asked of his involvement.

Schaefer testified only after being granted immunity from government prosecution, but he said he appeared despite threats that his two children would be harmed. He told senators his ex-wife and her mother received threatening calls concerning his children, before and after June 17 when he said he would testify if promised immunity.

Schaefer is serving a five-year sentence for two mail thefts. He said he committed more than 100 thefts in three years and realized—after the loot had been sold to fences—about $400,000.

Youth Performs Own Music in Lewisville

GREG GREENWAY

Greg Greenway will present his first concert of his own music Thursday, July 29 at the First Baptist Church of Lewisville. The program will begin at 7:30 and admission is free.

Greenway is fast becoming one of Arkansas' best-known young songwriters, but he steadfastly refuses to take credit for his songs.

"They're not mine, they're God's," says Greenway. "He gave me the talent. More than that, he actually writes the songs. I just sort of take them down."

Greenway, who just completed his freshman year at Ouachita Baptist University, is now youth and music director at the First Baptist Church of Gravel Ridge. He is in wide demand for revivals and youth retreats, with the result that his songs are now being sung by church choirs and youth groups throughout the state.

"When I sit down and try to write a song by myself, I can't do it," Greenway points out. "It's only when I turn it over to God that he can do something through me."

Despite the wide use of his songs, Greenway hasn't had anything published. And he isn't concerned about the prospects for publication of his work.

"I know it's not natural to be concerned with what happens to my songs," he explains, "but God has given me assurance that he will take care of that part of it."

Wants White River Fish Kills Halted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Game and Fish Commission Director Andrew Hulsey has written a letter to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., asking for the congressman's support in preventing a recurrence of a massive fish kill that occurred earlier this month in the upper reaches of the White River.

The precise extent of the kill has not been determined, but state officials said hundreds of rainbow trout died. Officials said, however, that the stream had been restocked already and that fishing on the White River has not been deterred by the kill.

The kill took place during the Independence Day holiday weekend, July 3-6. Trout died when the water temperatures rose to levels they cannot tolerate.

The increase was largely because of a diminished flow of cold water from lakes Bull Shoals and Norfork.

The reservoirs, built by the Army Corps of Engineers, are electric power generating stations of the Southwestern Power Administration, which curtailed its electricity generating operations and consequently, the flow of cold water due to a slackening in demand for electric power during the holiday period.

When the reservoirs were created, Congress issued authorizations for water uses. Water up to one level is available for conservation, up to another level for power generation, up to the third level for flood control.

However, Congress did not authorize water use for the purpose of keeping downstream waters sufficiently cool to support trout.

The letter from Hulsey said that a complete kill took place in a 22-mile stretch of the White from Sylamore to Lock and Dam No. 3 and that a partial kill took place in two other segments of the stream totaling a length of 24 miles.

Some of the fish killed were as little as eight inches long, others weighed up to 14 pounds.

Proposes Betting on Golf Tournaments

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — If William F. Talbert has his way, there could be a Las Vegas-style odds line on tennis matches at Forest Hills in the next few years, but the idea of legalized betting on golf brought cold reactions today from the game's leading personalities at the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

"I want no part of it," insisted Joseph C. Dey Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division.

"Of all sports, golf is least vulnerable to chicanery. But I cringe at the thought of open betting on golf tournaments. We are unalterably opposed to it. We have strict rules in our agreements with both players and sponsors."

"It doesn't shake me up because I think it's virtually impossible to fix a golf tournament," added Arnold Palmer. "My concern would be that it would change the character of the sport."

"The fans are too close—they can walk down the fairways with the golfers," said Fred Corcoran, tournament director of the Westchester and also of the International Golf Association. "This would give rise to suspicion when no reason for it might exist."

"Every missed three-foot putt would become suspect," said Dan Sikes, the golfing lawyer from Jacksonville, Fla. "Fred is right. The fans are too close. What about a sneeze or a cough just when a guy is beginning his backswing?"

Talbert, former Davis Cup captain who is director of the U.S. Open this year at Forest Hills, stunned the staid old tennis establishment earlier this week when he said he saw no harm in off-court betting. He said he planned to make a for-

S. Francisco 8-4 Over Pittsburgh

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Willie McCovey speaks, everyone listens ... and when he hits, everyone watches.

McCovey, the biggest and strongest brute in San Francisco's power-packed lineup, let his bat do the talking as usual and hit a grand slam that clobbered Pittsburgh 8-4 Wednesday night.

His two-out wallop off Pittsburgh's ace reliever, Dave Giusti, capped a six-run ninth inning that led the Giants back from a 4-2 deficit.

The comeback victory was a lift for San Francisco, trying to beat off Los Angeles' pennant bid in the National League West. It gave the Giants an eight-game lead after the Dodgers lost to Cincinnati 6-2.

In the other games, the Montreal Expos stopped the Houston Astros 5-3; the Chicago Cubs whacked the New York Mets 11-7; the St. Louis Cardinals turned back the Philadelphia Phillies 6-1 and the Atlanta Braves took a doubleheader at the San Diego Padres 8-7 in 11 innings and 1-0.

Dick Dietz opened the Giants' rally with a double and only advanced one base on a single to right when Roberto Clemente fired a strike to home plate.

"If Dietz scores, it turns the whole game around then the score would be 4-3 and we'd have to sacrifice the potential tying run on first and second," explained San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox.

But with men on first and third, Alan Gallagher had orders to hit away. He singled home the first run, then the Giants loaded the bases with a walk before Giusti got the next two men.

With two out, Willie Mays walked to force in the tying run and set the table for McCovey.

A three-base error by Mays almost made the Giants' great center fielder the goat.

Clemente's single skipped past Mays in the seventh and the Pittsburgh right-fielder came all the way around to tie the game 2-2. Manny Sanguillen then homered to put the Pirates ahead and they scored another run in the eighth to take a short-lived 4-2 lead.

Gary Nolan scattered seven hits and batted in two runs in a five-run third inning to lead Cincinnati over slumping Los Angeles, which lost its sixth in seven games.

Johnny Bench singled home the Reds' first run before their big third, which was also highlighted by George Foster's two-run single.

The Montreal Expos scored two unearned runs in the ninth inning with the bases loaded. Morgan's boot of Dave McDonald's two-out bouncer allowed Bob Bailey and Jim Fairley to come with the winning runs.

The Cubs used four home runs, including Ernie Banks' 511th career blast, to rip the Mets.

Reggie Cleveland spun a five-hitter and contributed two singles and a sacrifice fly to lead St. Louis over Philadelphia. The only run off the rookie right-hander was a home run by Oscar Gamble in the fourth.

Darrell Evans' home run with one out in the 11th inning, after two earlier blasts by Hank Aaron, pulled Atlanta over San Diego in the first game of their doubleheader. Pitcher Pat Jarvis raced home from first base when San Diego center fielder Clarence Gaston muffed Felix Millan's single giving Atlanta the second-game success.

Injuries May Sideline Starr Again

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer

What do you do with a 37-year-old quarterback, sidelined the end of last season with a sore throwing arm, who complains of pain in that arm during a passing drill Tuesday?

If the quarterback's name is Bart Starr, you send him to a doctor. Quickly.

That's what Green Bay Coach Dan Devine did with Starr, quarterback of the Packers through the glory years of the Vince Lombardi era but sidelined for much of the past three seasons with an assortment of injuries.

Starr left the Green Bay camp Wednesday morning and visited the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. He was back at camp for the team's afternoon practice, but limited his activity to calling plays.

"It was a precautionary move," explained Devine, in his first year as coach of the Packers after a highly successful record in the college ranks. "It was time for another opinion."

Starr has been undergoing an extensive program of training and rehabilitation in an effort to relieve the soreness in his throwing arm. If his arm does not come around, the Packers will be without a dependable quarterback.

There are three other signal-callers in the Green Bay camp. Zeke Bratkowski, now 39 and attempting a comeback after two years as an assistant coach, is the only one with pro experience. The others are Scott Hunter, a number six draftee from Alabama, and Frank Patrick, a converted tight end.

The Packers traded Don Horn, who had been groomed as Starr's heir apparent, to the Broncos during the off-season.

Earlier this week they cut Rick Norton, who received a large bonus from Miami to sign as a top draft choice in 1968.

Dallas linebacker Chuck Howley ended a five-day "retirement" by signing a one-year contract with the Cowboys and reporting to camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Meanwhile, second-year running back Duane Thomas said he and the Cowboys are $50,000 apart in contract talks and denounced the management as "inhuman people" who are "trying to crook me." Thomas earned $20,000 last year and is asking for $80,000 this time around.

One member of the holdout revolution, running back Larry Brown of Washington, became a former member by signing a multi-year pact with the Redskins. Brown, who paced the National Football League in rushing last year, had reportedly been asking $125,000. Terms of his contract were not revealed.

Two other rebel running backs, Dick Post and Mike Garrett of San Diego, reported to the Chargers' training camp and took part in Wednesday afternoon's workout.

Lady Golfer Upset Over Hair Color

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A talented brunette, irked at being called a flaming redhead, and two Curtis Cuppers dominate quarter-final play in the apparently wide open Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Kaye Beard, 20, University of Kentucky senior, nearly lost her cool in scoring a 1-up second-round victory Wednesday after which she cited reporters for describing her as russet haired.

Miss Beard, who eliminated Bonnie Lauer of Union Lake, Mich., the day after upsetting defending champion Jane Bastanchury, Whittier, Calif., wanted her hair color set straight.

"I'm mad at whoever wrote I had flaming red hair," pouted the attractive Miss Beard. "I'm a brunette, but in the summer the sun burns my hair so it looks red."

Kaye may have more than the hue of tresses to worry about today as she faces Curtis Cupper Nancy Hager, who enrolls at the University of Texas this fall.

Miss Hager, 18, a 1969 semi-finalist in the U.S. Women Amateur, gained the quarter-finals with a 5 and 4 triumph over Peggy Harmon, a collegiate star for Vanderbilt.

The other Curtis Cup quarter-finalist is Jane Fassinger, New Castle, Pa., 1970 U.S. Amateur runnerup, who faces Hollis Stacy, 17, a talented campaigner from Savannah, Ga.

The Beard-Hager and Fassinger-Stacy upper bracket matches well may hold the key to the championship to be settled in a 36-hole match Saturday at tricky Flossmoor Country Club.

Miss Fassinger Wednesday outlasted Laura Baugh, Whittier, Calif., 2-up as Miss Baugh succumbed by four-putting the 18th green. Miss Stacy scored a crisp 4 and 3 triumph over Martha Jones, Decatur, Ala.

PITCHING 10 Decisions — Ellis, Pitt., 15-3, .833, 2.10; Gullett, Cin., 10-3, .769, 2.79.
STRIKEOUTS — Stoneman, Mtl., 161; Jenkins, Chic., 159.

Senators Defeat Brewers 6-1

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer
A major league contract was one of the Washington Senators' selling points in luring bonus baby Pete Broberg, now the big right-handed pitcher is selling the club on his ability.

The 6-3, 205-pound rookie from Dartmouth College hurled his best game in his brief major league career Wednesday night, handcuffing Milwaukee on five hits and seven strikeouts as the Senators defeated the Brewers 6-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City trimmed Baltimore 7-2; Boston downed Chicago 6-1; Oakland shaded Cleveland 4-3 in 12 innings; Detroit split with California, winning the opener of a two-night doubleheader 6-3 in 11 innings and losing the second game 7-6; and Minnesota edged New York 2-1.

In the National League, San Francisco pounded Pittsburgh 8-4; Cincinnati stopped Los Angeles 6-2; Atlanta swept a two-night doubleheader from San Diego 8-7 in 11 innings and 1-0; St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 6-1; Montreal shaded Houston 5-3; and Chicago outslugged New York 11-7.

Broberg, the Senators No. 1 choice in the secondary phase of last month's baseball draft originally was picked by Oakland when he graduated from high school in 1968. But he rejected a reported $175,000 offer from A's owner Charles O. Finley.

This time, another huge bonus—an estimated $150,000—and the chance to start pitching immediately in the majors sold Broberg on the Senators.

After the youngster pitched his first complete game in the majors, beating Cleveland 9-4 with a six-hitter on July 4, Manager Ted Williams enthused:

"That boy may never see the minors."

In seven games with Washington, Broberg has allowed only 40 hits in 48 1-3 innings, struck out 35, walked 20 and boasts a sparkling 2.98 earned run average.

Ironically, it was the Brewers—and not the Senators—who were planning to draft Broberg first. Before the session in New York, owner Bob Short of Washington had been talking about selecting Rob Ellis, an infielder-outfielder from Michigan State University, and Milwaukee had indicated it would take Broberg.

Instead, the Senators, who had the first choice, switched and picked Broberg, and the Brewers, who chose third, would up with Ellis. Of the change, Williams said:

"I never saw his decision. I that was him. But thank God, we got him."

Two misplays by right fielder Larry Bittner in the third inning cost Broberg a chance for his first shutout. Bob Heise singled, went to third on a throwing error by Bittner and scored when Bittner misjudged Tommy Harper's fly ball, which fell for a double.

Del Unser paced Washington's 13-hit attack with three singles, while Dave Nelson had two run-scoring singles. The victory pulled Washington out of the AL cellar for the first time since May 19.

Boston's streaky Sonny Siebert won his fifth consecutive game, checking Chicago on six hits as the Red Sox pulled to within 2½ games of first-place Baltimore in the tightening East race. Siebert, 14-4, won his first nine games this season, before losing his next four. The only White Sox run off him was Rick McKinney's eighth-inning homer.

George Scott had three hits and two runs batted in for the Red Sox. The victory was Boston's ninth straight over the White Sox, including two games last season.

Lou Piniella smashed a homer and a triple and Cookie Rojas knocked in three runs, leading Kansas City's victory over the injury-riddled Orioles. Rojas cracked a 1-1 tie with a two-run double in the fifth. Then, Piniella tripled, driving in Rojas, and Joe Keough fol-

Live below your means.

If you'd like to get around the high cost of living, we have a suggestion:
Cut down on the high cost of getting around. And buy a Volkswagen. It's only $2000.00. That's around $1000.00 less than the average amount paid for a new car today. (Leave it in the bank. More's coming.)
A VW saves you hundreds of dollars on upkeep over the years.
It takes pints, not quarts, of oil.
Not one iota of antifreeze.
And it gets about 26 miles to the gallon. The average car (thirsty devil that it is) only gets 14.
So the more you drive a Volkswagen, the more you save.
And chances are, you'll drive it for years and years. (Since we never change the style, a VW never goes out of style.)
Of course, a VW's not much to look at. So a lot of people buy a big flashy car just to save face.
Try putting that in the bank.

Governor Increases His Staff

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The size of the staff authorized for Gov. Dale Bumpers and the state funds committed to the operation of the governor's office are the highest in Arkansas history.

Bumpers has been authorized a staff of 23. Additionally, his office currently is utilizing the services of an Arkansas Industrial Development Corp. employee on loan to the chief executive.

In the final year of the last term of ex-Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, the General Assembly provided for a payroll of 17 persons, not counting the governor. Bumpers also has managed to obtain a $66,000 Ozarks Regional Commission grant to provide salaries for four more positions in connection with his office's implementation of the 1971 state governmental reorganization act.

The total number of persons working on functions directly related to the governor's office, combining the positions authorized by the General Assembly and those Bumpers has mustered through other means, could come close to 30.

The state also has provided more money per employee under Bumpers than was provided for Rockefeller by the legislature.

In December, the last full month of Rockefeller's final term, the payroll averaged about $8,500. In June, the payroll under Bumpers averaged more than $10,900. And on July 1, many salaries for positions in Bumpers' office were increased.

The General Assembly provided $146,708 as the total appropriation for running the office in fiscal 1970-71, the year that included the last half of Rockefeller's final term and the first half of Bumpers' term.

However, after the gubernatorial victory of Bumpers over Rockefeller, the legislature fattened this amount with an appropriation of $20,341, including $13,400 to increase salaries under Bumpers.

This year, the legislature appropriated $259,828 for operations of the office in the fiscal year that began July 1 and $260,196 for the 1972-73 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

On top of that, Bumpers draws the $10,000 salary annually as provided by the state's Constitution.

Cummins Hearing Resumes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A hearing on several petitions filed by a Cummins Prison Farm inmate will resume in U.S. District Court in Little Rock next Wednesday.

The petitions, filed by Robert Courtney of Lepanto, included allegations that he was denied release from prison because he had in his possession "contraband" articles issued to him by the prison; that he had been denied the right to testify at his 1963 trial and that he had been persuaded against his will not to appeal a conviction of burglary and grand larceny in Pointsett County.

Courtney told Judge Oren Harris Wednesday that he was detained by prison officials 2½ hours before his scheduled release on May 18 because he had in his possession a suit of civilian clothes and $1.10 in money. Courtney said the suit and the money were given to him by prison officials.

board elections. In most school board elections board members are elected at large, which is not representative, he said.

To raise funds, Dillard said, the society is considering a fund-raising dinner.

Dillard said he has not discussed the society with former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican. But he predicted that Rockefeller would approve of the state forming a society. He said that the society has said Rockefeller is an example of the type of "progressive" Republican it supports.

Dillard said he had talked with Bernard about the society. "He said he was more than willing to have the society assist the Republican party in any way that we could," Dillard said.

Dillard said the society plans to do some research to help the state GOP. He said the state organization was having difficulty financing research.

U.S. MDs at Work in Egypt

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egypt and the United States are still divorced diplomatically, but a small U.S. Naval medical research team is fighting quietly in Cairo against diseases plaguing the Arab World.

Navy officials say the Egyptian government has been extremely hospitable to the little-known team of American Navy doctors and medical specialists through most of the ups and downs of U.S.-Egyptian relations.

Along with other Americans, the Navy team was kicked out of Egypt in June 1967 when the Arabs and Israelis went to war.

But immediately after that brief war, although Egypt broke diplomatic relations with the United States, the Cairo government invited the Navy research group to return.

The American medics came back—and found Egyptian employees had protected the laboratory from anti-American mobs.

"They were ready to walk in and go back to work," said Dr. Robert A. Frosch, the Navy's research and development chief.

Today the Navy medical researchers are the only U.S. military men in Egypt, which is host to thousands of uniformed Russian advisers.

Frosch told inquiring congressmen that Egyptian officials have been hospitable to the American Navy men "essentially because they are producing a product of medical knowledge on local medical problems."

But there is another reason, Frosch said. "They do, when requested by the Egyptian government, some direct medical practice work for the government."

Crampton Is Forgotten Man of Golf

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Bruce Crampton, a soft-spoken, articulate Australian, is one of pro golf's most skilled, successful performers and, as usual, was the forgotten man going into today's first round in the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

While the crowds flocked around Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and new hero Lee Trevino, Crampton went about his business in near anonymity.

He's a friendly, smiling man once the day's work is done, but often presents a dour, scowling appearance in his intense concentration on the course, a reflection of his serious approach to the game.

He's the defending champion in this tournament, the richest on the tour this season, won the Western Open in Chicago last week, is a serious challenger for this title and is one of the most successful foreigners ever to play the American tour.

He ranks eighth on the all-time money winning list with more than $700,000, has won at least one tournament and $100,000 in each of the last four years and—with more than $85,000 already is a cinch to hit that figure again this season.

Crampton, 35, and now a resident of Dallas, candidly admits he came to the United States because of the lure of the big purses on the rich American tour.

He came to this country as a 20-year-old, invited to play in the Masters as the Australian Open champ. He's been a regular on the tour for 15 years, one of their own men who play almost every week.

Somehow this picture was lost in the shuffle, but a fisherman this young deserves the recognition.

The Hope Little League defeated Arkadelphia at Arkadelphia 11-4 last night. The Hope team will go on to play in the district finals to be held in Hope at K-Park Friday night at 7:30.

Comments on Ripon Society

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The temporary president of the Ripon Society of Arkansas insists that the formation of a state chapter of the society is not an outgrowth of the dispute within the ranks of the Young Republican League of Arkansas.

Tom Dillard, state chairman of the YRL last year, was elected temporary president of the society during a meeting last Sunday of "less than 10 persons" in North Little Rock.

Dillard said he had sent invitations to 20 to 25 Republicans to attend the meeting to discuss forming a state group with a national society official.

The society is a liberal faction of the GOP, but Dillard says that its purpose is to conduct governmental research and recommend improvements. He also said that the society backs "progressive" GOP candidates.

Dillard was chairman of the state YR group last year when it adopted what he termed a "radical platform" during its convention.

He said the platform, which included calling for the legalization of marijuana and abortions, was not a result due to a change in the thinking of the YRs. Rather, he said, for the first time the college-age YRs found themselves in the majority.

The YRs again adopted a liberal platform this year, which raised the eyebrows of state Republican officials. Charles T. Bernard of Earle state GOP chairman, indicated the state party might step into the youth's organization.

However, another faction within the YR organization met a short time later and elected a complete new set of officers and adopted a new platform. Both facts met and agreed to completely reorganize the state group into three age classifications.

Dillard said the members of the Ripon society would be primarily postcollege age, ranging from 20 to 30. He said not all members of the society would be members of the YRL.

Dillard said the Arkansas society has been named a "provisional" arm of the national organization and would not be made permanent until it could prove it can "sustain" itself — both financially and as a group.

He said that as a provisional organization, the state society would have to show that it is able to do governmental research.

He said one of the first suggested studies was on the one-man-one-vote rule in school

Indians Cut U.S. Ties, Disaster Hits

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

Menominee Indian says cutting ties with the federal government has been disastrous for the once-prosperous tribe whose members are filling the welfare rolls and hard hit by unemployment.

Far worse, said Ada Deer, is the sale of reservation forest land to outsiders for a summer vacation resort.

Miss Deer testified before the Senate Interior Committee Wednesday on behalf of DRUMS, a Menominee movement to reunify the tribe and re-establish the trust relationship with the federal government.

George W. Kenote, chairman of the board of trustees of Menominee Enterprises in Neopit, Wis., and Miss Deer advised Congress to repudiate a 1954 policy advocating termination of Indian tribes.

"We do not think termination is a valid course of government and Indian affairs when it dispossesses and makes Indians landless," Kenote said.

In 1954, the tribe had $10 million in the U.S. Treasury and a forest valued at $36 million and was one of the few tribes paying for most of its federal services.

In 1951, the Menominees won a $7.6-million judgment against the Bureau of Indian Affairs for mismanagement, then asked that $5 million of that be distributed among tribal members.

Such a bill passed the House but the late Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, R-Utah, demanded an end—termination—of federal supervision and aid to the tribe.

The tribal council took two votes, Miss Deer said, and, on the second, rejected termination, 197 to 0.

Congress terminated the Menominees anyway in 1954 and the tribe's prosperity soon began fading, she said.

In 1961, BIA health, education and utility services ended. The reservation school and hospital were closed because they didn't meet state standards, and neither a doctor nor dentist has practiced since in the county which the tribe formed.

Congress transferred to the private Menominee Enterprises, Inc., the job of protecting the forest lands.

"Far from being able to preserve our land, MEI has been forced to sell it," she said.

Miss Nobody's British Find That Red China Moves Slowly, Hard to Deal With

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — "Miss Nobody" has her name back. She lost it five months ago, the day a drug overdose took her life in a Miami motel room.

The county medical examiner's staff was determined not to bury the pretty hazel-eyed teenager until it exhausted all possibilities of finding her family. As supervisor of investigation Elizabeth Everson put it: "We've never buried one that young without knowing who she is. I just absolutely refuse to bury one so young in the county cemetery. It must be terrible for the parents not to know what's become of their daughter."

One day after a newspaper report was published about "Miss Nobody," a tearful mother telephoned police and said, "I think that's my daughter."

A few hours after Mrs. Robert Fortson of Miami Springs called the police, her husband arrived at the county morgue. The search was over.

Lisa Marie Johnson died Feb. 15. She was 18.

"What can I do?" Fortson said, brushing tears from his eyes as he spoke of his stepdaughter's death.

"She had no problems at school and none here at home either," said Fortson, a U.S. customs inspector. "I feel like kicking a hole in the wall."

The couple told police they had no idea their daughter had been involved in narcotics.

Police found the girl sprawled on her death bed with the left sleeve of her blue flower-print blouse unbuttoned. A syringe was on a shelf, foil packets torn in two and a vention blind cord apparently to tie off a vein were scattered around the room.

"Miss Nobody's" trip ends Friday in an Anderson, Ind., cemetery.

Editor's note: The following action to prevent what he called "the resurgence of Japanese militarism."

If the Chinese leaders insist on their demands as the price of normalization, Nixon may well discover his goal lies locked away in the future.

That the President is aware of this became evident Wednesday when administration sources told newsmen in Washington they anticipate many complexities in Peking-Washington relations after years of hostility.

When Britain extended formal recognition of the Chinese Communist government on Jan. 6, 1950, it broke the ranks of Western unity on Asian policy. As a reward for this trailblazing decision, the Chinese have responded by piling indignity upon insult for most of the last 20 years.

Yet to this day British leaders insist that what they did was in Britain's national interest.

Their two-way trade with the Chinese is running near $240 million a year with more in prospect; Hong Kong flourishes as a factory for all Asia with an annual turnover of $4 billion.

Taking a long view British officials are quick to recall relations with any Chinese government have never been easy. "The first British ships reached Chinese waters in 1637 and shot their way upriver to Canton to do their business," said one diplomat-turned-trader. "Our dealings with the Chinese have been rough ever since."

This century began with British trying more and more to manufacture inside China. When the Communists under Mao Tse-tung proclaimed "The People's Republic of China" in September 1949, British investments in the mainland were valued at $1 billion. A major reason why the postwar Labor Government of Clement Attlee recognized the Communist regime so quickly was the hope that somehow those interests might be salvaged. But British hopes were dashed.

Recognition of the Communist government was not a doctrinaire act of Attlee's Socialist administration. It also had the backing of the late Sir Winston Churchill.

Nonetheless, the British attempted to ride two horses at the same time, maintaining a circumspect friendship with Peking and an alliance with Washington.

In the early 1950s there were some in Britain who thought their country could strengthen old ties with China.

Shocks came swiftly to shatter these hopes. Eleven days after recognition, Chou En-lai said China would be ready "to negotiate" establishment of diplomatic relations. It emerged that Peking would not exchange ambassadors with London before Britain withdrew its last consulate from Nationalist China and before Britain began voting unreservedly for Peking's tenacity of China's seat in the United Nations.

Chou also demanded the return of all Chinese state property in British territory.

Only this year has Britain moved to satisfy the last of these conditions. An unqualified British vote for Peking is slated when the U.N. General Assembly meets in the fall. Britain's consul in Tamsui, Formosa, is also sure to be recalled.

Thus the stage is being set for elevating British-Chinese diplomatic representation from

Astronauts Ease Off on Training

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts today eased off on a heavy training program that began 16 months ago, relaxing for Monday's blastoff to the moon and one of history's most important scientific explorations.

David R. Scott and James B. Irwin planned a review of procedures to be followed before and after the three excursions they are to make during 67 hours on the lunar surface.

Included are depressurizing and repressurizing the lunar module cabin, donning and removing suits and checking communications and life support systems.

Alfred M. Worden scheduled some time in the command module simulator, rehearsing maneuvers and science experiments planned for the three days he is to orbit the moon while his companions explore below.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today marks the start of a more relaxing schedule as launch day nears. Scott, Irwin and Worden, who began training for the mission in March 1970, are scheduled to start their 12-day journey on a Saturn 5 rocket at 9:34 a.m. EDT Monday.

"They are in excellent condition for launch," Dr. Charles A. Berry, the astronauts' chief physician said after they had been examined by a team of three specialists for four hours. The doctors also gathered medical data for in-flight and post-flight comparison.

The astronauts will receive brief daily checkups until launch day.

At the launch pad, the countdown, which began Tuesday, continued smoothly.

During the night, crews loaded gaseous helium to pressurize fuel tanks in the command ship and conducted leak checks of the lunar module tanks.

Scott and Irwin are to land on the moon July 30 at a site they call Hadley Apennine. It is surrounded by the 15,000-foot-tall peaks of the Apennine Mountains and a meandering gorge named Hadley Rille.

The site was selected because it will enable the moonmen to drive their four-wheel moon buggy to five geologically interesting features. These are the mountain front, which may contain original lunar crust; the gorge, perhaps carved by lava flow; impact craters; a flat area called the Marsh of Decay, and craters which may have been volcano eruptions.

the level of charges d'affaires to that of ambassador.

Britain set up its first diplomatic mission in Peking within months after the act of recognition.

It took the Chinese four years to do so and then only in the amiable aftermath of the Geneva Conference of 1964 of Indochina.

Since that time British-Chinese affairs have moved mostly from one crisis to another. Britons have been jailed without trial. Diplomats have been manhandled. In 1967 at the height of the cultural revolution the British mission in Peking was destroyed. In London the Chinese diplomatic building was under siege with Chinese wielding axes and baseball bat. In defiance of London bobbies.
